

It is a great honour for me to be a candidate to the Nominating Committee of the European Society of Cardiology.

I have been participating for many years to different national and international societies, as president of the GACI (the French Group of Interventional Cardiology) in 2010 to 2011, as president of the French Society of Cardiology and currently as a member of the board of the French Society of Cardiology since 2011. I have been part of 5 task Force of ESC Guidelines.

The 3 dimensions of Health (Research, Teaching and Care) must concern National and International Societies. Guidelines issued from these Societies are important to help Physicians in diagnosis and therapeutic decisions and to standardize Care at the highest level. The European Society of Cardiology has a major role to play in this field.

I believe that a European Cardiology culture should emerge now that the European Society of Cardiology is well positionned in most of the European countries and my nomination in the Nominating Committee would be a modest way for me to take part of this development.
