

Cardiovascular Realities in Europe

Premature Deaths

Cardiovascular disease is the world's biggest killer. Cardiovascular diseases are also responsible for a large proportion of premature mortality. More precisely, they account for 30% and 33% deaths before the age of 70 in Europe, in females and males, respectively.

