

Dr. Sanjay GANDHI, Philips, USA

Dr. Sanjay Gandhi is an interventional cardiologist and MedTech executive currently serving as the Vice President and Head of Medical Affairs and Medical Safety for Philips.

In his current role, he leads global cross-functional teams in medical affairs, key opinion leader management, clinical education, value-based healthcare, and co-innovation with strategic customers. He has held leadership roles in American College of Cardiology (ACC) including current membership in National Cardiovascular Data Registry (NCDR) oversight committee and ACC finance committee.

He is a strategic thought leader, recognized for his ability to manage calculated risks, create solutions, and motivate high-performing teams with diverse skill sets to meet or exceed stretch goals. With over 20 years of experience in interventional cardiology, medical education, clinical trials, service line operations, and hospital strategy and innovation, Dr. Gandhi is dedicated to driving innovation, enhancing patient and provider experiences, and improving healthcare access globally.