

ACNAP MENTORING PROGRAMME

Christi Deaton Research mentor

Discipline	Nursing
Qualifications	PhD, RN, FAHA, FESC, FAAN
Affiliation	University of Cambridge School of Clinical Medicine and Cambridge University Hospitals
Country of residence	United Kingdom
Link to external web page/research website with publication list	https://orcid.org/0000-0003-3209-0752 Professor Christi Deaton - Department of Public Health and Primary Care (cam.ac.uk)
Career overview	Christi Deaton began her career in nursing in 1977 in the US, and has extensive clinical practice experience in acute and cardiovascular patient care. She completed her PhD in 1994 in the US, and moved to Manchester, UK in 2003. From 2004 to 2013, Professor Deaton held a joint Chair in Nursing at the University of Manchester and an acute care Trust. She took up her current post at the University of Cambridge School of Clinical Medicine and Cambridge University Hospitals in November 2013 as head of the Clinical Nursing Research Group in the Primary Care Unit .
Research focus	Professor Deaton's research interests focus on management of patients with heart failure with preserved ejection fraction (HFpEF) and other cardiovascular conditions, exercise and physical activity as therapy for patients with heart failure and other long term conditions, adherence to physical activity,

ACNAP

Association of Cardiovascular
Nursing & Allied Professions

ACNAP MENTORING PROGRAMME

	cardiovascular prevention, and nurse- or therapist-led services. Current research includes leading a programme of work to improve management of patients with HFpEF, Optimise HFpEF. https://www.optimisehfpef.phpc.cam.ac.uk/
Collaborations	Cardiovascular investigators in UK, Europe, and USA
Keywords related to research interests	Heart failure with preserved ejection fraction; physical activity, rehabilitation; cardiovascular prevention