Part A - RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR APPLICATIONS TO THE PROGRAMME

1. Purpose of the Education and Training Grant Programme

To provide an opportunity for clinical training in the field of interventional cardiology in a country from ESC National Cardiac Societies other than their own country of citizenship, permanent residence or country of work/training for medical graduates having completed a major part of their cardiology training but before obtaining a “permanent”, “senior staff” or “consultant” position.

This programme can be considered as a valorisation of the geographical mobility as well as cultural exchanges and professional practice in the field of cardiology.

Training in fields directly related to cardiology may also be considered. The goal of this grant is to help young candidates attain clinical competence and acquire experience of high quality cardiological practice which enable them to contribute to improving academic and clinical standards upon return to their own country.

2. Candidates eligibility

Candidates eligible for the Education and Training Grant Programme are those who meet all the below requirements:

- Are citizen or permanent resident from a country among the 57 ESC National Cardiac Societies, AND, whose ‘country of work/training at the time of application’ is among the 57 ESC National Cardiac Societies. (Please refer to the Appendix 1 at the end of this document for additional information).
- Are medical graduate providing they have already proved some research potential by publishing in medical journals OR are science graduate holding a PhD or DPhil degree or equivalent or have submitted a thesis before starting the training period relating to the grant

Note: The successful female grant candidates will be selected because of merit and scientific achievement and not purely based on gender

3. Selection criteria

3.1 Selection criteria for candidates

Criteria for selection include career and scientific achievements to date, motivation, plans for the Grant period, career goals after the grant period, impact of the grant, experience in interventional cardiology (structural, coronaries).

Preference will be given to candidates who have not received a previous competitive award or Grant, and those who have not received other grants outside the ESC and its internal constituent bodies.

Candidates having already received a grant from the ESC or one of its internal constituent bodies (Association, Working Group or Council) will not be eligible to apply.

In addition, although candidates can apply to more than one grant within the ESC or one of its internal constituent bodies, they will not be eligible to receive more than one grant. If selected by more than one entity, they will be asked to make a choice.

Candidates are not asked to have a pre-agreement with a centre before applying (but they can make some proposals and express their preference in a country and/or centre).

The EAPCI Committee in charge of the Education and Training Grant Programme will not select more than 2 candidates from the same country to ensure optimal geographical spread and will send a maximum of one candidate per centre, and as such reserves the right to propose alternative centres.
