It is a privilege to work with people who possess energy, enthusiasm, creative thinking and foresight to make EHRA a leader in the field.

The success of EHRA depends not only on the commitment of those contributing to its activities, but also on strategic decisions, which is a prerequisite for achieving its goals. These decisions are all the more important in the context of challenges we face due to the pandemic.

I have had the honor of serving on the EHRA Board, first as Chairman of the Education Committee, then Chairman of the Scientific Programme Committee and currently as Treasurer. My experience in ESC and EHRA activities would allow me, as Secretary, to serve the Executive Board in contributing to key decisions.

My past responsibilities within EHRA have been demanding roles. Taking on these tasks despite clinical and research activities, family time etc. have had their challenges, but have been possible with proper organization.
